

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

COLONEL JOHN D. WILLIAMS

Colonel John D. Williams is the Commander, 155th Air Refueling Wing, Lincoln, Nebraska. He is responsible for organizing, training and equipping four groups and 10 squadrons executing worldwide aerial refueling, cargo, aeromedical evacuation and humanitarian relief operations. He ensures airmen are prepared and ready to deploy in support of domestic and federal missions.

Colonel Williams earned his commission through the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln before joining the Nebraska Air National Guard. He has held a variety of flying, staff and command assignments, such as: Headquarters National Guard Bureau acting Director of KC-135 Training, EUCOM J5/8 Bilateral Affairs Officer and EUCOM Deputy Chief of the Office of Defense Cooperation-Prague. In Prague, he facilitated multinational cooperation, Foreign Military Sales and oversaw the International Military Education and Training program. He served as Operations Group Chief of Standards & Evaluations before being selected for squadron command. As Operations Group Council Chairman, Colonel Williams led 19 Air National Guard KC-135 and KC-46 Wings overseeing prioritization, mission planning and issues affecting the fleet which enhanced readiness and availability for Combatant Commands.

He has flown numerous homeland defense and domestic operation missions, and has deployed in support of operations: Joint Guard, Joint Forge, Allied Force, Southern Watch, Northern Watch, Enduring Freedom, Iraqi Freedom and Freedom's Sentinel.

Colonel Williams is a command pilot with more than 5,000 flight hours, including 560 combat hours in the KC-135. He is an Active Guard Reserve officer since 2001, and has held civilian employment as an architect and contract instructor for the OC/WC/RC-135 at Offutt AFB. Prior to assuming his current position, the colonel was commander of the 155th Operations Group.
